Research Development

Coordinate limited submission opportunities

What is a limited submission opportunity?

Sponsor or funding agency limits the number of proposals

- a PI may submit and/or
- an institution / organization may submit

An institutional limit requires a coordinated effort to ensure that the proposal(s) submitted by NC State are accepted by the sponsor or funding agency for consideration.

Research Development

Coordinate limited submission opportunities

The role of the Limited Submissions Coordinator

1 Discover and announce opportunity

2 Set schedule for internal notification of interest;
determine internal review criteria

3 Post opportunity to RDO website:
research.ncsu.edu/funding/ltd-sub-ops/

4 Coordinate internal review;
submit review panel's recommendation to Vice Chancellor

5 Notify PIs of their status (moving forward or not)

Coordinate limited submission opportunities

The role of the Principal Investigator

1

Share interest with department head, associate dean for research and research administration office

2

Notify limited submission coordinator by the posted due date

3

Submit an internal preproposal by the posted due date

4

If selected to move forward, notify college research administration office of status and follow college protocol for submission

5

If selected to move forward, submit proposal to sponsor or funding agency on time. Notify limited submission coordinator if a proposal will not be submitted.

Internal reviews conducted online via CompetitionSpace

Limited Submission Procedure at NC State

- Some programs limit the number of proposals an individual PI or institution may submit.

Opportunities that are institutionally limited are identified, announced through the Funding mailing list and posted on the Research Development website at go.ncsu.edu/ltdsub

- Failure to follow internal coordination procedure could result in all proposals being submitted by NC State for the program to be rejected by the funding agency or program sponsor.

Declare interest at department/college level

Notify limited submission coordinator by due date

Submit internal preproposal by due date

Coordinate submission to funding agency or program sponsor through college research administration office; notify limited submission coordinator if a proposal will not be submitted
